

Monroe #1 BOCES / Hillside Day Treatment: O'Conner Program

Hillside Children's Center

The O'Conner Day Treatment program is a collaboration between Hillside Children's Center and Monroe #1 BOCES. The program offers a small structured (6:1:1) educational program for students with emotional and mental health needs. O'Conner works with youth in grades 9-12. Students are referred to the program by the Committee on Special Education (CSE) in their local school districts.

ABOUT THE SERVICE

- We work with families and local school districts to develop a customized individual plan for each student.
- We provide academic and social skills development; comprehensive psychiatric care; individual, group and family psychotherapy; instruction based on NYS Common Core learning standards; psychological evaluations and consultations; crisis intervention; case management; and behavior management.
- Our multidisciplinary team includes special education teachers, master's-prepared clinicians, psychiatrists, psychiatric nurse practitioners, psychologists, crisis intervention specialists, case managers, behavior specialists and specialized therapists as needed.
- Parents are partners in every aspect of our program, from initial planning to regular follow-up meetings and at-home visits. We succeed by working hand-in-hand with families, and we are committed to keeping them involved in every aspect of their children's care.
